Off-Campus Living

Policy/Procedure

Although Dickinson is a four-year residential college, a limited number of seniors are permitted to live off-campus each year. That number is determined each year based upon the total occupancy capacity of the College and size of the student body. All seniors are eligible to apply to live off campus and must do so based upon the guidelines distributed by the Office of Residential Life each spring. Students may individually apply and they are granted permission to live off campus individually.

The Office of Residential Life recommends that students DO NOT sign a lease until students have been granted permission in writing to live off-campus.
