DOCUMENTATION GUIDELINES FOR STUDENTS WITH PHYSICAL (MOBILITY OR DEXTERITY) DISABILITIES

Dickinson College students who seek accommodations based on their disability are responsible for completing an online Disability Disclosure and Request for Accommodation form (found at www.dickinson.edu/ODS), and for providing appropriate supporting documentation. A student who seeks academic accommodations on the basis of a disability is responsible for obtaining the needed evaluation and resulting documentation, and for initiating contact with the Office of Disability Services. Dickinson College approaches requests for accommodations with the belief that each student's circumstance is unique and that a flexible approach is the right way to determine appropriate accommodations.

By itself, a medical diagnosis does not establish a need or an entitlement to accommodations under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act or the Americans with Disabilities Act as Amended (ADA-AA). Another way of saying this is that having any disorder or condition does not, by itself, lead to any conclusion under Section 504 or the ADA. Therefore, the documentation required by Dickinson College extends beyond the medical diagnosis and encompasses the four key elements of a person's disability status under Section 504 and the ADA. Those key elements are that:

- the student has a physical or mental impairment
- the impairment limits the student's participation in a major life activity*
- the degree of limitation is substantial and
- there is something that the college can do that would be reasonable, needed, and predictably effective in responding to the impairment.

Documentation that substantiates each of these four areas serves as a foundation that legitimizes a student's request for appropriate accommodations. If a student seeks accommodations on the basis of more than one disability, then more than one professional may need to be involved in developing the diagnoses and other documentation.

The Director of Disability Services will review the documentation and collaborate with the student to determine reasonable and appropriate academic accommodations. Students are encouraged to schedule a conversation with the Director as soon as possible after submitting documentation. The accommodations afforded to each student will be determined on an individual basis and will be based on the documentation provided.

* The Disability Documentation Form, list examples of a "major life activity" as defined under the ADA Amendments Act of 2008. According to the ADA, “A major life activity also includes the operating of a major bodily function, including, but not limited to, functions of the immune system, normal cell growth, digestive, bowel, bladder, neurological, brain, respiratory, circulatory, endocrine, and reproductive functions.”
Acceptable documentation for a disability must meet the following requirements:

- The diagnosis must meet the criteria of a disability and must be made by a qualified professional.

  The diagnosis must be made by a licensed physician or other qualified health care provider with experience and expertise in the area for which accommodations are being requested, and should specify the corresponding diagnostic code for the diagnosis using the International Classification of Diseases Manual, Ninth or Tenth Revision (ICD-9 or 10).

  The diagnostician must be an impartial individual who is not a family member of the student.

- Include relevant educational, developmental, and medical history.

- Reflect and describe the current functional limitation the disability has on the student’s learning or other major life activity and the degree to which it impacts the individual in the academic context.

  The age of acceptable documentation is dependent upon the disabling condition, the current status of the student, and the student’s request for accommodations.

- The diagnosis is supported by appropriate assessments and presents current symptoms.

  Include a summary of assessment procedures and evaluation instruments used to make the diagnosis, including evaluation results.

  Present medical information relating to the student’s functional limitations and the condition’s impact on the student’s ability to meet the demands of the postsecondary environment.

  Include any relevant information regarding medications prescribed and possible side effects.

- Include specific recommendations for accommodations with accompanying rationale.

  A connection must be established between the requested accommodations and the functional limitations on the student in the academic environment.

- The report must be type-written on official letterhead and signed and dated by the evaluator, noting his or her credentials.
