
The Commencement Exercises

The first Dickinson College Commencement exercises were held in the Presbyterian church on the town square, and the occasion was something of a public holiday. Professors and students marched in procession, first from the college buildings in Liberty Alley and then from our present campus. Each graduate gave proof of his learning by delivering an address in Latin or English, a practice that continued through most of the 19th century. In later years, music was introduced as a restorative between orations, and as the number of graduates increased, the final oratory was reduced to one guest speaker, rewarded with an honorary doctorate.

The details of the Commencement procession at Dickinson have varied, but the order has been preserved. Throughout much of the latter half of the 19th century, Trustee William Ryland Woodward, class of 1838, led the processions, followed by the head janitor, who wore a tall silk hat and carried the diplomas on a silver tray. In 1897 board member Horatio Collins King, class of 1858, was named the first marshal of the college. He led almost all of the processions during the next two decades, holding up a small wooden baton as an ensign of his authority. In the years since, 10 members of the faculty have carried the same baton while officiating as marshal.

In 1950, a more imposing symbol, the college mace, was fashioned by Mary O. Abbott. Carved in cherry and black walnut and surmounted by a bronze mermaid, the mace bears the seal of the college and bas-relief portraits of John Dickinson, Benjamin Rush and Charles Nisbet. Two rings and the finial on the shaft were carved from the stump of the walnut tree that grew where Denny Hall now stands and beneath which, according to tradition, George Washington stood as his army passed in review in 1794. Introduction of the mace into college ceremonies led to the selection of other professors to serve as mace bearer.

The order of procession is now the marshal, the mace bearer, faculty, administrators, the graduating class and the presidential party, which includes trustees and special guests.

The gowns worn by participants hearken back to the monastic robes of the Middle Ages. The hood—worn by clergy and students for warmth in drafty halls—was retained in specialized cases, such as academic distinction. In the United States, an intercollegiate commission in 1893 adopted a uniform code requiring bachelors' and masters' gowns to be made of cotton poplin or similar material, while silk or rayon is used for doctoral robes. Bachelors' gowns have pointed, open sleeves hanging to the knee, and masters' gowns have closed sleeves, with the arm brought through a slit at the elbow. Doctors' gowns have velvet facings down the front and full, bell-shaped sleeves, each trimmed with three bars of velvet. The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States; doctors may wear a gold tassel, but all others wear black.

The hood is lined with silk in the official colors of the institution that granted the highest degree held by the wearer, while the color of the velvet border indicates the field of study within which the degree was awarded. Some of the latter designations are as follows: white, arts and letters; scarlet, divinity; purple, laws; golden yellow, science; dark blue, philosophy; light blue, education; brown, fine arts; pink, music; green, medicine; orange, engineering. With the duplication of college colors, some universities have authorized the use of an entire robe of a distinctive color, and others place an insignia on each side of the front.

Clerical gowns were worn by the earliest faculty but disappeared early in the 19th century. Curiously, students at Dickinson adopted the academic robes at Commencement before faculty, who did not appear in gown and hood until the procession of 1904. Previous generations of graduating seniors were distinguished only by their affiliation with one of the literary societies—the red rose of Belles Lettres or the white rose of Union Philosophical. During today's ceremony, graduating seniors who studied abroad during their Dickinson careers wear the flags of their host countries on their academic gowns.

In the college's early days, a Latin ritual was included in the Commencement ceremony, beginning with an inquiry by the president to the trustees: "Placetne vobis, viri admodum generosi, ut juvenes, qui cursum suum in hoece collegio nuper peregerunt, ad baccalaureatus in artibus gradum nunc admittantur?" To this one trustee solemnly answered for all: "Placet." The president completed the ceremony with words similar to those used now in English. The early diplomas also were in Latin and bore the signatures not only of the president but of every professor under whom the candidate had studied.

The first Dickinson honorary degree was an M.A. awarded to Nathaniel Randolph Snowden in 1790. Through most of the 19th century, masters' diplomas were awarded to all alumni who, three years after graduation, had given some evidence of being established in life—a sort of confirmation of the first award. (Once a generally accepted practice in American colleges, this no longer prevails.) The earliest honorary doctorates, awarded in 1792, were in divinity. Distinguished alumni have been so honored from an early date, including Roger Brooke Taney, LL.D., 1831; James Buchanan, LL.D., 1842; Spencer Fullerton Baird, D.P.S., 1856; Moncure Daniel Conway, L.H.D., 1892; and Zatae Longsdorff Straw, Sc.D., 1937.

Honorary Degrees

Ian McEwan

Ian McEwan, the award-winning author of more than 20 novels and short stories, including Atonement, receives the Doctor of Letters honorary degree and is delivering Dickinson's 2015 Commencement address.

McEwan was born in 1948, the son of a career soldier. He spent his early childhood in the Far East and North Africa and then at boarding school in England. After making a difficult choice between the humanities and science, he studied literature at the universities of Sussex and East Anglia. He began writing short stories while still a student, and a collection, First Love, Last Rites, was published in 1975. His early work was characterized as dark and often violent, even grotesque. His third novel, The Child in Time, marked a new direction, broadening his concerns. Over the years, science, religion, music, love, the nature of work and the nature of the times we live in have been his central concerns.

McEwan has been shortlisted for the Man Booker Prize for Fiction numerous times, winning the award for Amsterdam in 1998. His novel Atonement received the 2002 WH Smith Literary Award, the 2003 National Book Critics' Circle Fiction Award, the 2003 Los Angeles Times Prize for Fiction and the 2004 Santiago Prize for the European Novel. Atonement also became a critically acclaimed movie that earned the 2008 Golden Globe for Best Picture and seven Oscar nominations, including one for Best Picture.

In 2006, McEwan won the James Tait Black Memorial Prize for his novel Saturday, and his novel On Chesil Beach was named Galaxy Book of the Year at the 2008 British Book Awards. He was named the Reader's Digest Author of the Year for 2008 and the 2010 Peggy V. Helmerich Distinguished Author, and in 2011, he was awarded the Jerusalem Prize. His most recent novel is The Children Act.

McEwan first visited Dickinson in 2005 through the Harold and Ethel L. Stellfox Visiting Scholars and Writers Program, which brings major literary figures to campus for an inter-arts residency that includes readings, discussions, performances, a public lecture and an award ceremony.

Beyond writing, McEwan's passion is hiking. He has two grown sons and lives with his wife, Annalena McAfee, in rural Gloucestershire, England.

Ann Conser Curley '63

Ann Conser Curley, a community volunteer, former journalist and Dickinson alumna, will receive a Doctor of Liberal Arts honorary degree.

Curley has been a devoted Dickinsonian since her arrival on campus in 1959. During her undergraduate years as an English major, she showed a flair for a wide range of artistic and intellectual endeavors, and her academic achievements earned her several distinctions, including entry into Wheel and Chain Senior Women's Honorary Society and Phi Beta Kappa.

For more than five decades, Curley has remained dedicated to Dickinson's mission, earning the Distinguished Alumni Award for Service in 2005. Her contributions to the college include serving as a member of the alumni council, 1983-89, with a three-year role as president; co-chairing the major donor committee of Dickinson's capital campaign in 1985; representing the alumni body on the editorial advisory board for Dickinson Magazine; introducing prospective students to Dickinson as an admissions volunteer; and working for many years on class-reunion committees. In addition, Curley served as a member of the board of advisors from 1995 to 2001 and holds a lifetime membership in the Mary Dickinson Club.

She and her husband, John Curley '60, have contributed extensively to the life and future of the college, providing vital support for virtually every aspect of college life, including three endowed chairs for faculty: the John J. Curley '60 and Ann Conser Curley '63 Faculty Chair in Liberal Arts; the John J. Curley '60 and Ann Conser Curley '63 Faculty Chair in Global Education; and the John J. Curley '60 and Ann Conser Curley '63 Faculty Chair in International Studies, Business & Management. They also have generously supported Dickinson scholarships, the arts, athletics, the Waidner-Spahr Library and the Alliance for Aquatic Resource Monitoring (ALLARM). Most recently, their generosity resulted in the Curley Terrace, which provides views of Biddle Field from the new Durden Athletic Training Center.

For more than 30 years, Curley has been a volunteer reader for the Metropolitan Washington Ear, which provides services for those who cannot effectively read print. She also currently serves as the organization's board secretary. Her journalistic career included serving as an editor with The Trentonian (N.J.) and The Mercer Messenger (N.J.) and as a feature writer for the Associated Press in New Jersey. Curley also was a writer and editor for AARP publications and for the American Vocational Association.

John R. “Jack” Stafford ’59

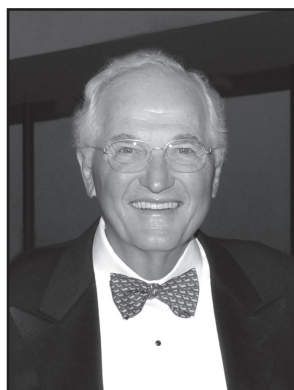

John R. “Jack” Stafford ’59, a philanthropist, former pharmaceutical executive and Dickinson alumnus, earns a posthumous Doctor of Philanthropy honorary degree, which will be presented to his family.

Stafford was chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Wyeth. He joined Wyeth—formerly American Home Products Corporation—in 1970 as general counsel and held positions of increasing responsibility at the company, serving as executive vice president, president and CEO. He served as chairman from 1986-2001. During Stafford’s 31-year tenure at the company, Wyeth grew to become one of the largest pharmaceutical companies in the world, with significant pharmaceutical and consumer health care businesses. It generated $14.1 billion in net revenue in 2001 and had approximately 52,000 employees worldwide.

Stafford also served as a director at Honeywell International Inc., J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., NYNEX, Verizon, AlliedSignal and Metropolitan Life Insurance Company as well as on the advisory board for the Christopher Reeves Paralysis Foundation.

While a student at Dickinson, Stafford was involved with many campus organizations and college athletics, including lacrosse, basketball and football. Stafford also met his wife of 52 years at Dickinson, the late Inge Paul Stafford ’58, who became a longtime member of Dickinson’s Board of Trustees.

The Staffords established a solid legacy of giving back to the college and remained engaged with both the student and faculty experience. They made many generous gifts to the college throughout the years, including funds to establish the Stafford Reading Room in the Waidner-Spahr Library; the Stafford Auditorium in the college’s cutting-edge Rector Science Complex; the Stafford Teaching Laboratory in Dana Hall; and, most recently, the Dr. Inge P. Stafford Greenhouse for Teaching and Research, which was dedicated in fall 2013. They also established the Inge Paul and John R. Stafford Scholarship in Bioinformatics, a Stafford Scholars Research Fund and the Inge Paul Stafford Scholarship in Psychology and Neuroscience, as well as the John R. Stafford ’59 and Inge Paul Stafford ’58 Endowed Chair in Bioinformatics.

William Wallace ’74

William Wallace ’74, an art historian and Dickinson alumnus, receives a Doctor of Fine Arts honorary degree.

The inaugural Barbara Murphy Bryant Distinguished Professor of Art History at Washington University in St. Louis—where he has taught since 1983—Wallace is an internationally recognized authority on the Renaissance artist, architect and poet

Michelangelo Buonarroti. He has published extensively on Renaissance art. In addition to more than 90 articles and essays, he has authored or edited seven books on Michelangelo, including a major biography of the artist, Michelangelo: The Artist, the Man and His Times, and the award-winning Michelangelo: The Complete Sculpture, Painting, Architecture, which received the 1999 Umhoefer Prize for Achievement in the Humanities. His forthcoming book is titled God’s Architect: Michelangelo’s Late Life and Art.

Wallace has received numerous awards and fellowships, including stays at the Villa I Tatti—Harvard University’s Center for Italian Renaissance Studies in Florence—and the American Academy in Rome. In 1990, he was invited to the Vatican to confer about the conservation of Michelangelo’s frescos in the Sistine Chapel. He appeared in the BBC film The Private Life of a Masterpiece: Michelangelo’s David and served as the principal consultant for the BBC film The Divine Michelangelo. He also has taped a 36-hour audio-visual course, “The Genius of Michelangelo,” for The Teaching Company.

In addition to his B.A. from Dickinson, Wallace earned an M.A. from University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, in 1976 and a Ph.D. from Columbia University in 1983. He received the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign Distinguished Alumni Award in 2013 and earned Washington University’s David Hadas Teaching Award in 2010. Prior to that, he was awarded Washington University’s Distinguished Faculty Award (2003) and the Missouri State Governor’s Award for Excellence in Teaching (1995).

THE SAM ROSE '58 AND JULIE WALTERS PRIZE AT DICKINSON COLLEGE FOR GLOBAL ENVIRONMENTAL ACTIVISM

HONORING NATURAL RESOURCES DEFENSE COUNCIL CO-FOUNDER JOHN ADAMS

This year Dickinson College awards the fourth-annual Sam Rose '58 and Julie Walters Prize at Dickinson College for Global Environmental Activism. The $100,000 prize, given to an individual or group dedicated to preserving the planet and its resources, incorporates a short-term residency for student and community interaction during the upcoming academic year.

The prize honors John Adams, who co-founded the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) in 1970, serving as the NRDC's executive director, and later president, from its inception until 2006, a tenure unparalleled by the leader of any other environmental organization. Today, the NRDC stands as a force for nature, with more than a million members, online activists and a staff of 400 using law, science and grassroots activism to carry out its important mission. Adams continues to play an active role in the organization on the local, national and international levels.

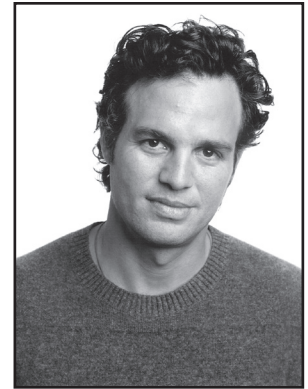

In 2010 Adams and his wife, Patricia, recounted the history of the NRDC and the environmental movement in their aptly named memoir, A Force for Nature. President Barack Obama awarded Adams the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor, in 2011 for his lifetime of public-service achievements.

Sam Rose '58 and his wife, Julie Walters, established the prize because of their deep personal regard for Adams and his work. Rose, a real-estate developer and attorney, was a member of the 1958 Dickinson lacrosse team that made college history when it won Dickinson's first and only national title. A founding partner of Greenebaum and Rose Associates, he has more than 40 years of experience in commercial development, primarily in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area. He is an emeritus trustee of Dickinson and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Philanthropy by the college in 2013 for his support of education and environmental causes.

Committed to restoring and sustaining the natural world for future generations, Rose and Walters created this prize to focus attention on the need to reduce the impact of human lives on the planet, particularly given the rising population predictions for this century.

Dickinson, a national leader and innovator in sustainability education, challenges its students through classroom studies, living laboratories, service learning, student-faculty research and study abroad to build the knowledge and skills needed to create a sustainable world. Courses throughout the curriculum examine and seek solutions to national and global environmental problems. Dickinson's achievements and leadership in sustainability have earned the highest recognition from the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education, Sierra magazine, the Sustainable Endowments Institute, The Princeton Review and Second Nature.

MARK RUFFALO is the fourth recipient of the Sam Rose '58 and Julie Walters Prize at Dickinson College for Global Environmental Activism. A strong advocate for addressing climate change and increasing renewable energy, Ruffalo co-founded Water Defense in 2011 to raise awareness about the impact of energy extraction on water and the public health. He also co-founded

The Solutions Project, which launched in 2012 as part of his mission to share science, business and culture that demonstrates the feasibility of renewable energy. Recently, Ruffalo teamed up with race car driver and environmental activist Leilani Munter in partnership with The Solutions Project to promote their initiative "50 Plans for 50 States." The plan is a roadmap to take the U.S. to 100 percent clean energy and hopes for a transition from traditional fuel-burning energies to alternative energies such as wind, water and solar in each state.

A regular contributor to The Guardian and The Huffington Post, Ruffalo has received the Global Green Millennium Award for Environmental Leadership and the Meera Gandhi Giving Back Foundation Award. In 2011, he was named one of Time magazine's "People Who Mattered," and in 2013 he received the Big Fish Award from Riverkeeper—New York's clean-water advocate. He also is the recent recipient of the BAFTA Los Angeles Britannia Humanitarian Award for his environmental work.

Ruffalo is an Academy Award-nominated actor whose credits include You Can Count on Me, The Avengers, Zodiac and Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind, as well as the Emmy, Golden Globe and Screen Actors Guild Award-winning HBO film The Normal Heart. His roles in the Academy Award-nominated films The Kids Are All Right and Foxcatcher earned Ruffalo Oscar nominations for Best Supporting Actor. Upcoming releases include Infinitely Polar Bear and The Avengers: The Age of Ultron, in which he reprises his role as Bruce Banner (the Hulk). He also is currently filming a sequel to Now You See Me, which was co-written by Dickinson alumnus Edward Ricourt '95.

Additional Information

DIPLOMAS

At the request of past graduates and parents, we have not rolled the actual diplomas. The original diplomas will be available for pickup by the graduate or a family member on Britton Plaza (or, in the case of inclement weather, in Biddle House) immediately following Commencement.

Please be sure to pick them up by 2 p.m.

PHOTOGRAPHS

U.S. Candids will take photographs of each graduate. Photos will be posted online within two to three days after the graduation ceremony. You can view and purchase photos online at www.uscandids.com. If you are unable to view the photos online, please call 844-922-6343.

For additional information, questions or comments, please e-mail mail@uscandids.com.

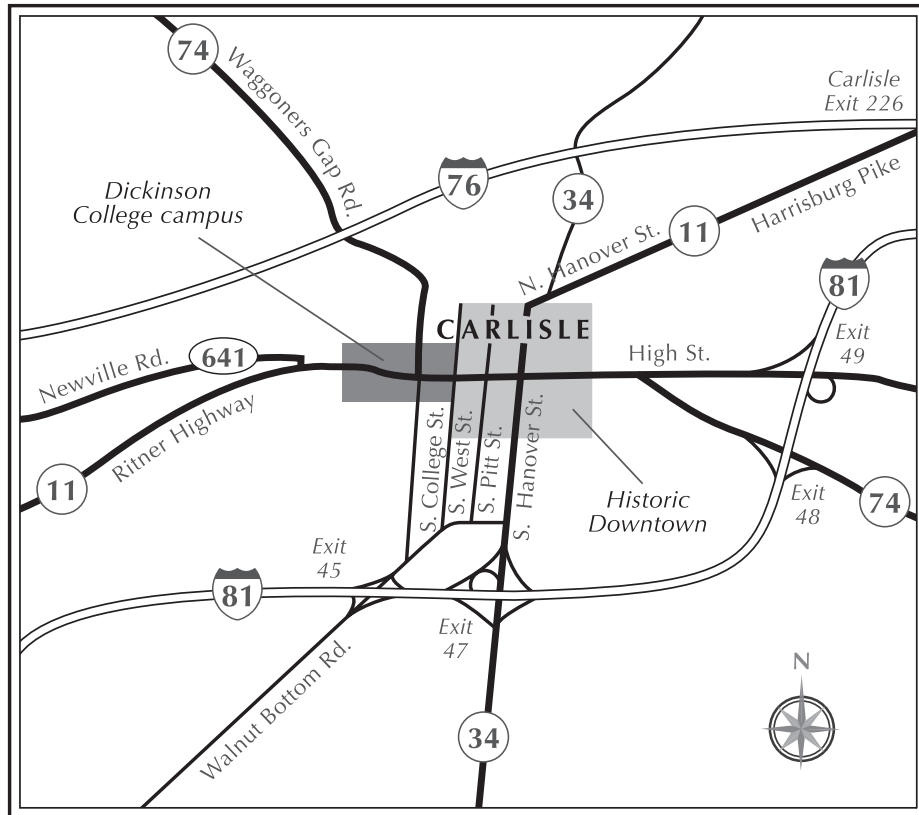

VIDEOS

A professional videographer will record the ceremony.

To purchase copies of the DVD or Blu-ray disc, contact Bucher's Video at 717-334-0038.

LEAVING CARLISLE

Guests and graduates may experience heavy traffic this afternoon because of the Carlisle Import-Kit/Replicar Nationals car show at the Carlisle Fairgrounds. To avoid traffic, people intending to go north or south on I-81 should go south on College Street, turn right on Walnut Bottom Road and proceed to the entrance ramps for I-81 (Exit 45). If you need to travel on the Turnpike, go to I-81 (as above) and proceed north to Exit 52 (PA Turnpike signs are clearly marked), then south on the Harrisburg Pike (Rt. 11) to the Turnpike entrance.

In 1888-1889, Charles Francis Himes was acting president, and in 1986-1987, George Allan, the dean of the college, served as acting president. During the periods 1816 to 1821 and 1832 to 1834 the college was closed.

History of the College

In 1773 the citizens of Carlisle founded a grammar school on land donated by Thomas and John Penn, but classes were temporarily suspended when the first schoolmaster left to serve at Valley Forge. With an optimism buoyed by colonial independence, Philadelphia physician Benjamin Rush proposed that the fledgling school be transformed into a college that would be “a source of light and knowledge to the western parts of the United States”—the wilderness lands stretching west from the Susquehanna River.

John Dickinson, governor of Pennsylvania and drafter of the Articles of Confederation, was persuaded, and on Sept. 9, 1783, a charter was approved by the Representatives of the Freemen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The new college, founded by Presbyterians but with an independent board of trustees, was dedicated to “the instruction of Youth in the learned languages” and in the “useful arts, Sciences, and Literature.”

Charles Nisbet, a Calvinist minister from Scotland, was the first principal of the college. He insisted on rationality and high standards of learning and encouraged the founding of two of the nation’s oldest continuing literary societies, Belles Lettres (1786) and Union Philosophical (1789). Chief Justice Roger Brooke Taney, class of 1795, and U.S. President James Buchanan, class of 1809, were among their early student members.

The college’s first permanent building, Old West, was completed in 1805. Benjamin Latrobe, the architect of the Capitol building in Washington, contributed both preliminary designs and working drawings for the building. To him and to its builders, higher education was a cause upon which the life of their new nation depended, and Old West was built as a living monument to their conviction. Known as the “College Edifice,” the building was crowned by a weathervane replica of a classical sea deity, interpreted and rendered by a local coppersmith in the form of a buxom mermaid. Over the years, it has become a distinctive symbol of this inland campus.

When Old West was erected, Dickinson’s trustees and donors had the same broad objective in mind—to secure the freedom and future of America by assuring an educated citizenry. They agreed that liberty must be founded on learning. This aim was inscribed on the college’s seal, a copy of which appears on the cover of this program. Among the donors were a U.S. president (Thomas Jefferson), a U.S. vice president (James Madison), a chief justice (John Marshall), members of President Jefferson’s cabinet and members of the Supreme Court—in all, more than 100 patriots and soldiers of the War for Independence.

In the early 19th century, Dickinson fell on hard times, briefly closing twice before coming under the sponsorship of the Methodist Church in 1833. The college was revitalized under the leadership of its new president, John Price Durbin, a former chaplain of the U.S. Senate.

During the Civil War, Dickinson sent her sons to fight on both sides, hopeful “that college loyalties would bind where civil strife separated.” In the years after the war, Dickinson leavened its abiding commitment to liberal-arts education with several innovations. The college became coeducational in 1884 in response to the determination and courage of its first woman student, Zatae Longsdorff, class of 1887. The law department, inaugurated in 1834, became the Dickinson School of Law in 1890 but has operated independently from the college since 1917. Dickinson also introduced elective courses for its students at this time and experimented briefly with awarding doctoral degrees in cursu. Following World War I, President James Henry Morgan presided over a new educational experiment that required students to graduate with a major field of concentration as a part of their general baccalaureate.

Since 1960, under the leadership of Presidents Howard L. Rubendall ’31, Samuel A. Banks, A. Lee Fritschler, William G. Durden ’71 and Nancy A. Roseman, the first female president of the college, Dickinson has developed and expanded a balanced and diverse liberal-arts curriculum that has fostered a wide range of distinctive multidisciplinary strengths that include innovative programming in global and sustainability studies; a willingness to tackle contemporary challenges through emerging fields such as security studies; a nationally celebrated workshop/laboratory approach to science education; abundant student-faculty research opportunities; extensive internship, study-abroad and service-learning options; and a distinctive first-year seminar program.

Dickinson’s picturesque campus has always served as a park and playing field for students, its history punctuated by major fires, an 1863 Confederate-Army bivouac and soldier parade drills in 1917 and 1942. In the early years, professors and students cultivated cabbages and onions on the grounds. Today, the campus’ abundant flowers and trees are augmented by produce, herbs and forage greens, which also thrive at the nearby organic Dickinson College Farm. In warm weather, classes often are held on the campus green, and as in generations past, Commencement exercises and other ceremonious occasions take place by the “old stone steps” of Old West.
