Meet Our New President

Margee Ensign, Dickinson's 29th president, will be on campus throughout the weekend. Join her at the Friday night President's Welcome Reception and hear reflections on her first year as president at the Saturday morning breakfast.

During her first year as president at Dickinson, President Ensign's presence and passion continue to be felt across campus and throughout the Dickinson community around the world. After welcoming generations of Dickinsonians to campus during Alumni Weekend and a new generation during Orientation—and after connecting with the local community during a fall peace rally in downtown Carlisle—President Ensign met personally with thousands of alumni during the yearlong Useful Education for the Common Good Tour.

She remains a strong voice on issues of the day, with recurring mentions and bylines in local and national media outlets, and she's launched ideas- and ideals-driven initiatives on campus, including an intercultural competency education program that helps prepare students to communicate effectively across cultures while also helping to build a more inclusive campus community. President Ensign also has initiated a college-wide strategic planning process and is strengthening Dickinson's relationships with the Carlisle community through a new scholarship program and through deepening community-service partnerships with institutions such as the U.S. Army War College.

Dear Alumni and Friends,

Alumni Weekend is a unique time, as generations of Dickinsonians come together for fellowship and friendship at a place that still feels like home. We are able to share stories, reconnect with our past, and spend time with both old and new friends that have the common (limestone) touchstone of our alma mater, Dickinson College.

Please take time to enjoy the events of the weekend. There is something for everyone, with structured activities at ceremonies, receptions and dinners as well as less structured opportunities to simply relax, catch up with friends and tour the changes on campus and have those “remember when” moments. This is a special time, and we hope you will come away from the weekend with a renewed connection to Dickinson and a keen understanding of the exciting things happening at Dickinson today. Whenever I return to campus, I am called to reflect on the impact this institution has had on my life. Many of my oldest friends are alumni, and my first job came from onsite interviews, which led to a career, two businesses and meeting my wife, who is also an alumna. Over the past several years, I have been amazed at the transformation the college is making in enriching the alumni experience to truly live the mantra “Useful Education for the Common Good.” It is a wonderful opportunity we all have to come together for an engaging weekend and reunite with friends, rekindle relationships and relive some of our most treasured memories.

I encourage you all to come back to Dickinson. Join us for Alumni Weekend to connect with fellow alumni, experience life on campus and explore both the old and the new at Dickinson and in Carlisle.

Welcome Home, David

SYLVIA SMITH '73

Sylvia J. Smith '73 is a LEED-accredited, award-winning architect and senior partner at FXCollaborative Architects; under her direction, the firm has designed recognized projects across the U.S. and around the world. As a member of Dickinson's Board of Trustees since 2003 and as chairperson of the Facilities Committee, she's brought her insight and expertise to construction projects for renovated and new facilities, including the Rector Science Complex, Althouse, the Admissions House and the Kline Fitness Center. She has served Dickinson as a Mermaid Society member since 2007, as a JDS member since 2008 and as a Metzger-Conway fellow. The former fine arts major fosters a love of the arts through the Sylvia J. Smith Visiting Artists Fund, established in 2007 to bring up-and-coming professional artists to Dickinson each year for an intensive residency during which they work directly with students.

"I came away from Dickinson with such rich experiences, and that gave me an incredible foundation," she says.

"Having the opportunity to continue to be a part of the college community and support others' experiences is rewarding to me. It's gratifying to be a part of an institution that has done so much and to do what I can to perpetuate and strengthen it."

Distinguished Alumni Award for Professional Achievement

JUDGE ROSALYN ROBINSON '68

Rosalyn Robinson '68 is a judge in the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas, a career she launched after serving as deputy general counsel for the Pennsylvania governor's office (1983-93), Philadelphia district attorney (1974-79) and chief counsel of the newly created Department of Aging (1979-83). In her home city, she gives back through the Philadelphia chapters of The Girl Friends Fund, supporting low-income African-American students; and The Links Inc., one of the oldest and largest volunteer service organizations of women. At Dickinson, she's an emeritus trustee who's also served as Alumni Council president, Metzger-Conway fellow (1985), alumni admissions representative, Student Life Task Force member, Dickinson Fund class chairperson and as a member of several class reunion committees. In 2000, Robinson established the Rosalyn K. Robinson Scholarship Endowment Fund, helping to ensure that a new generation of talented students can access the level of educational opportunities she enjoyed. She also recently established a fund to support Dickinson's Popel Shaw Center for Race & Ethnicity.

"I've always felt that my Dickinson education prepared me well, and it instilled in me a love of clubs, and a love of learning," she says. "It made me willing to try to learn almost anything I'm interested in."

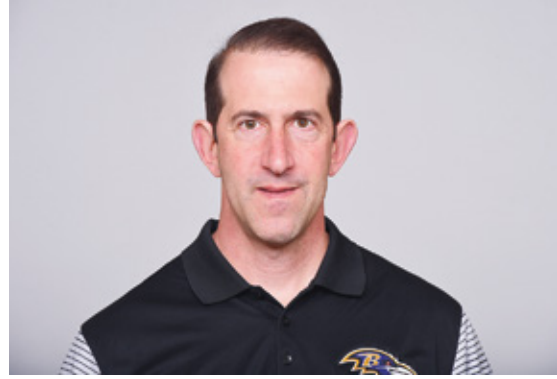

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

Outstanding Young Alumni Award

SIOBHÁN O'GRADY '13

A passion for politics and writing led Siobhán O'Grady '13 to a career in foreign correspondence. She is currently based in West Africa, and she has lived and reported across the continent, chasing stories from South Sudan, Nigeria, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Uganda, Kenya, Senegal and Ghana. She reports across a broad spectrum, covering conflict, human rights, art, war crimes and refugee crises. Through her reporting, she seeks to share stories of human resiliency and innovation, especially in parts of the world that Americans often overlook. She is a two-time grant recipient from the International Women's Media Foundation and a 2017 International Reporting Project Fellow in Nigeria. Her work has appeared in The New York Times, Los Angeles Times, The Washington Post, The Atlantic and Foreign Affairs, among other outlets.

"My own community of Dickinsonians continues to inspire, support and awe me," she says. "And my career would not be possible without them or the education Dickinson provided to me."

The 1783 Award

SCOTT COHEN '91

Scott Cohen '91 is now going into the 26th season of his NFL career, which began as an intern with the Washington Redskins during his time at Dickinson. Currently, he is an assistant coach and opponent analyst with the Baltimore Ravens. He writes weekly reports for the coaching staff for opponent preparation while running opponent-related research projects and monitoring top team/NFL trends. Before the Ravens, he was assistant general manager with the New York Jets and director of pro personnel with the Philadelphia Eagles as part of six teams that reached the conference championship. Still deeply involved with Red Devils football, Cohen was instrumental in planning a memorial service for former football coach Ed Sweeney on campus. He also has taken the lead in creating Dickinson's new Alumni Football Leadership Council, a group of all football alumni focusing its efforts on fundraising, recruiting, networking and mentoring. The 1783 Award, which is presented each year to a new Dickinson volunteer who has demonstrated success in both quality and quantity of service, honors Cohen for these efforts to strengthen Dickinson athletics.

"My experience with Dickinson's football program was very meaningful," Cohen says. "The memories of success we had along with the players and teammates that I am still close with to this day, those are lasting memories. This is a great time to get the alumni engaged with the new coach and help the program create a winning environment."

Recreation The Kline Center and Fitness Center will be open throughout the weekend. Racquetball, squash and tennis courts may be reserved upon arrival to campus. Please show your Alumni Weekend nametag to the staff at the Kline Center to access the facilities. Dickinson bikes may be checked out at the Department of Public Safety in Kaufman Hall. You must leave your driver's license with Public Safety while using the bikes.

Refunds Cancellations will be accepted with full refund until June 1. You must contact the Office of Engagement & the Dickinson Fund at 717-245-1373 to cancel and request a refund.

Registration Upon your arrival to campus, please pick up your registration packets, keys, nametags and schedules. Registration will be held in the Welcome Center in the Waidner-Spahr Library.

Special Assistance If you require special assistance during the weekend, please contact the Office of Engagement & the Dickinson Fund at 717-245-1373 prior to arrival so we can help accommodate your needs.

Transportation The Office of Engagement & the Dickinson Fund is unable to provide rides to or from campus for the weekend. However, we are happy to offer resources and assistance as alumni make their traveling plans.

[well-stated]

There will be an awful lot of sentences that begin with “remember when.”

TOM ZUG '68 who looks forward to seeing old friends.

Had an amazing weekend with these Dickinsonians!!
Love you all ♥

Alumni Weekend has been a highlight for me every year It is a unique opportunity to reconnect with friends of many years and an institution that will always hold a very special place in my heart. LINDSEY IACOVINO '75 looks forward to sharing reunion weekends with her daughters who are also Dickinson grads.

It's wonderful to re-experience campus with old friends, and I think it helps alumni gain perspective and appreciation for their history, growth and connection to this community.

KRISTIN HOLDT PRACITTO '92, alumni council

I always have a truly wonderful time!

CYNTHIA MCNICHOLAS '74, alumni council, has attended 33 consecutive Alumni Weekends.

It is important to connect with people in person and go back to your roots.
