LEARNING & ACTION

The Engagement Showcase is now part of the Dickinson Virtual Symposium!

Save the Date: Monday, April 27, 3:00pm-4:30pm

April 10, 2020

Dickinson faculty realize that many of our students have worked very hard on their research and some of you have already prepared posters or other presentations. Although we cannot gather together on campus, we invite you to celebrate your hard work by participating in a virtual symposium with your peers and colleagues.

This year the organizers of the All-Science Symposium and the Community Engagement Showcase are combining efforts for a united Dickinson Virtual Symposium on Monday, April 27, 2020, from 3:00 to 4:30 pm for Dickinson students who would like to present their work. This event welcomes student poster presentations from the sciences, community engagement, and other departments. We strongly encourage all students--from all disciplines--who would like to present their research to make a poster or other demonstration of their work that can be easily displayed on their computer (e.g. via PowerPoint, Adobe Acrobat, or a video).

If you would like to participate, please complete the form below and submit no later than Monday, April 20, 2020.

Thank You!

Virtual Symposium Planning Team

The Center for Civic Learning & Action (CCLA) is devoted to developing ethical leaders who collaborate in the pursuit of just and resilient communities. We are seeking proposals for projects advancing community-identified needs and furthering community-minded civic engagement. The Engagement Showcase will feature student posters of these community-driven projects where students can present their work to the campus.

Call for Proposals

Proposals

Content. Project proposals must focus on community-identified needs or community engagement related work developed by a student or group of students. Projects can arise from service-learning courses, independent studies focusing on community engagement research, or individual ideas of meaningful civic engagement.

Your target audience for the poster is any member of the community. Posters should be accessible to those who have little to no experience with community engagement work. If you are including complicated terms and/or concepts, make sure to explain them sufficiently.

We recommend the following resources to assist in designing your poster:

- Ten Simple Rules for a Good Poster Presentation from PLoS Computational Biology, May 2007.
- Presenting a Research Poster from University of Nebraska-Lincoln
- Effective Poster Presentations from the Center for Innovation and Research in Teaching at Grand Canyon University. The embedded videos are helpful!
