SIKH

Vaisakhi (Birth of the Khalsa Panth): Vaisakhi is sometimes spelled Baisakhi. Sikh students might wish to spend with their sangat and family at a Nagar Kirtan or "Sikh day parade". A while back Humans of NY posted photos of the Sikh day parade in NYC and other such parades in cities and towns with sizeable Sikh American population. Although the parades are on weekends, the actual day may involve family wanting to be together with community/sangat and celebrating "The Birth of the Khalsa panth"

Gurupurab: Guru Nanak Dev Jayanti (birthday) and Guru Gobind Singh Ji Jayanti (birthday) both are significant. Sikh Guru's were incarnated until the Shri Guru Granth Sahib Ji was deemed the Guru for Sikhs at the end of Guru Gobind Singh Ji's life.

Holla Mohalla: As more and more American colleges celebrate "Holi" they must recognize that Holi may be Indian/South Asian but it holds different meanings for Sikhs and Hindus, is celebrated differently. Although Sikh students don't need the day off it can be oppressive to see a holiday that is celebrated religiously in distinct ways from Hindus appropriated and the Sikh way of celebrating erased.

Diwali: Diwali is known as "Bandhi Chorr Divas" or Liberation Day for Sikhs. It is celebrated on the same day as Hindu Diwali. Sikh students may not go to class this day.
