The Commencement Exercises

The first Dickinson College Commencement exercises were held in the Presbyterian church on the town square, and the occasion was something of a public holiday. Professors and students marched in procession, first from the college buildings in Liberty Alley and then from our present campus. Each graduate gave proof of his learning by delivering an address in Latin or English, a practice that continued through most of the 19th century. In later years, music was introduced as a restorative between orations, and as the number of graduates increased, the final oratory was reduced to one guest speaker, rewarded with an honorary doctorate.

The details of the Commencement procession at Dickinson have varied, but the order has been preserved. Throughout much of the latter half of the 19th century, Trustee William Ryland Woodward, class of 1838, led the processions, followed by the head janitor, who wore a tall silk hat and carried the diplomas on a silver tray. In 1897 Board Member Horatio Collins King, class of 1858, was named the first marshal of the college. He led almost all of the processions during the next two decades, holding up a small wooden baton as an ensign of his authority. In the years since, 10 members of the faculty have carried the same baton while officiating as marshal.

In 1950, a more imposing symbol, the college mace, was fashioned by Mary O. Abbott. Carved in cherry and black walnut and surmounted by a bronze mermaid, the mace bears the seal of the college and bas-relief portraits of John Dickinson, Benjamin Rush and Charles Nisbet. Two rings and the finial on the shaft were carved from the stump of the walnut tree that grew where Denny Hall now stands and beneath which, according to tradition, George Washington stood as his army passed in review in 1794. Introduction of the mace into college ceremonies led to the selection of other professors to serve as mace bearer.

The order of procession is now the marshal, the mace bearer, faculty, administrators, the graduating class and the presidential party, which includes trustees and special guests.

The gowns worn by participants hearken back to the monastic robes of the Middle Ages. The hood—worn by clergy and students for warmth in drafty halls—was retained in specialized cases, such as academic distinction. In the United States, an intercollegiate commission in 1893 adopted a uniform code requiring bachelors' and masters' gowns to be made of cotton poplin or similar material, while silk or rayon is used for doctoral robes. Bachelors' gowns have pointed, open sleeves hanging to the knee, and masters' gowns have closed sleeves, with the arm brought through a slit at the elbow. Doctors' gowns have velvet facings down the front and full, bell-shaped sleeves, each trimmed with three bars of velvet. The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States; doctors may wear a gold tassel, but all others wear black.

The hood is lined with silk in the official colors of the institution that granted the highest degree held by the wearer, while the color of the velvet border indicates the field of study within which the degree was awarded. Some of the latter designations are: white, arts and letters; scarlet, divinity; purple, laws; golden yellow, science; dark blue, philosophy; light blue, education; brown, fine arts; pink, music; green, medicine; orange, engineering. With the duplication of college colors, some universities have authorized the use of an entire robe of a distinctive color, and others place an insignia on each side of the front.

Clerical gowns were worn by the earliest faculty but disappeared early in the 19th century. Curiously, students at Dickinson adopted the academic robes at Commencement before faculty, who did not appear in gown and hood until the procession of 1904. Previous generations of graduating seniors were distinguished only by their affiliation with one of the literary societies—the red rose of Belles Lettres or the white rose of Union Philosophical. During today's ceremony, graduating seniors who studied abroad during their Dickinson careers wear the flags of their host countries on their academic gowns.

In the college's early days, a Latin ritual was included in the Commencement ceremony, beginning with an inquiry by the president to the trustees: "Placetne vobis, viri admodum generosi, ut juvenes, qui cursum suum in hoece collegio nuper peregerunt, ad baccalaureatus in artibus gradum nunc admittantur?" To this one trustee solemnly answered for all: "Placet." The president completed the ceremony with words similar to those used now in English. The early diplomas also were in Latin and bore the signatures not only of the president but of every professor under whom the candidate had studied.

The first Dickinson honorary degree was an M.A. awarded to Nathaniel Randolph Snowden in 1790. Through most of the 19th century, masters' diplomas were awarded to all alumni who, three years after graduation, had given some evidence of being established in life—a sort of confirmation of the first award. (Once a generally accepted practice in American colleges, this no longer prevails.) The earliest honorary doctorates, awarded in 1792, were in divinity. Distinguished alumni have been so honored from an early date, including Roger Brooke Taney, LL.D., 1831; James Buchanan, LL.D., 1842; Spencer Fullerton Baird, D.P.S., 1856; Moncure Daniel Conway, L.H.D., 1892; and Zatae Longsdorff Straw, Sc.D., 1937.

Honorary Degrees

Madeleine K. Albright

Madeleine K. Albright, chair of Albright Stonebridge Group, a global strategy firm, and Albright Capital Management LLC, an investment advisory firm; professor at the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service; New York Times bestselling author; and 64th secretary of state of the United States, receives the Doctor of International Relations honorary degree and is delivering Dickinson's 2014 Commencement address.

Albright has had a distinguished career in public service, diplomacy and international affairs. In 1997, she was named the first female secretary of state by President Bill Clinton. As secretary of state, she reinforced America's alliances, advocated for democracy and human rights, and promoted American trade, business, labor and environmental standards abroad. Prior to this post, she served as the U.S. permanent representative to the United Nations and was a member of the President's Cabinet; president of the Center for National Policy; member of President Jimmy Carter's National Security Council and White House staff; and chief legislative assistant to U.S. Senator Edmund S. Muskie. In 2012, Albright received the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor, from President Barack Obama.

Albright is a professor in the practice of diplomacy at the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service. She chairs the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs and the Pew Research Center's Global Attitudes Project, and she formerly chaired a group of experts focused on developing NATO's New Strategic Concept. She serves as president of the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation. Albright also serves on the U.S. Department of Defense's Defense Policy Board as well as the boards of the Aspen Institute and the Center for American Progress.

Albright is the author of five New York Times bestsellers: her autobiography, Madam Secretary: A Memoir; The Mighty and the Almighty: Reflections on America, God, and World Affairs; Memo to the President: How We Can Restore America's Reputation and Leadership; Read My Pins: Stories From a Diplomat's Jewel Box; and Prague Winter: A Personal Story of Remembrance and War, 1937-1948.

Albright is a graduate of Wellesley College and earned master's and doctorate degrees from Columbia University's Department of Public Law and Government, as well as a certificate from its Russian Institute (now the Harriman Institute).

David Kim

David Kim, violinist and concertmaster of The Philadelphia Orchestra, receives the Doctor of Arts honorary degree.

At a young age, Kim studied with the famed pedagogue Dorothy DeLay and later earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from The Juilliard School. In 1986, he was the only American violinist to win a prize at the International Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow.

Kim is the founder of the Kingston Chamber Music Festival at the University of Rhode Island and served as its artistic director for 20 years. In conjunction with the Kingston Chamber Music Festival, Kim founded an annual outreach program that took him to elementary schools, performing and speaking about classical music in an effort to cultivate future audiences. He continues to devote a portion of his schedule each year to bringing classical music to children.

Kim has held his position as concertmaster of The Philadelphia Orchestra since 1999. Highlights of his 2013-14 season include serving as visiting professor at the University of Texas at Austin's Butler School of Music; a return as concertmaster of the All-Star Orchestra in New York City and on PBS stations across the U.S.; a residency at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music; a return to L'Orchestre Symphonique de Bretagne in France; and recitals and solo appearances across the U.S. and Korea.

As a highly sought-after pedagogue, Kim presents master classes at institutions throughout the U.S. and abroad including Juilliard, the New World Symphony, Princeton, Yale and the Korean National University of Arts. He performed at Dickinson on two occasions in front of standing-room-only crowds: in 2011 to celebrate the opening of the newly renovated Rubendall Recital Hall and in 2013 as an artist-in-residence. Kim also serves as artist-in-residence for the Hyogo Performing Arts Center Orchestra in Japan and at Eastern University, where he received an honorary doctorate. He also received an honorary doctorate from the University of Rhode Island.

H.F. (Gerry) Lenfest

H.F. (Gerry) Lenfest, entrepreneur and philanthropist, receives the Doctor of Philanthropy honorary degree.

Lenfest practiced law at the New York firm of Davis Polk & Wardwell before becoming corporate counsel of Walter Annenberg's Triangle Publications in 1965. In 1970, he became managing director of the company's communications division consisting of Seventeen magazine and Triangle's cable television properties. He started Lenfest Communications four years later with the purchase of two cable television companies from Annenberg. Lenfest founded and owned what became the Philadelphia region's largest cable operator, Suburban Cable TV, part of Lenfest Communications, until its sale to Comcast Communications in 2000, and is part owner of Interstate General Media, which publishes The Philadelphia Inquirer.

Lenfest made his fortune as a media mogul and has made a career out of generous philanthropic commitments to disadvantaged youth, the arts, higher education and the environment. In 2000, he and his wife, Marguerite, established The Lenfest Foundation, an independent, board-directed, private foundation. Its priorities are scholarships for college-bound students from Pennsylvania's rural regions; career and technical education; early childhood education and out-of-school-time programs for disadvantaged youth, primarily in Philadelphia; climate change; and protection of the oceans.

Through their foundation and private donations, the Lenfests have already given the bulk of their wealth to charitable causes and have committed to distributing even more by spending down the foundation and its affiliated programs.

Lenfest chairs the boards of the Museum of the American Revolution and the James Madison Council of the Library of Congress, and he has previously chaired the boards of the Philadelphia Museum of Art and the Curtis Institute of Music. He is an honorary trustee of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation. Lenfest is a graduate of Mercersburg Academy, where he served as the president of the Board of Regents; Washington and Lee University, where he is an emeritus trustee; and Columbia University. He has been active in Columbia Law School's affairs since his graduation and received the school's Distinguished Achievement Award in 1997. He is permanent president of his class and has served on his class fund committee, the Board of Visitors, the Law School Association Board and the Dean's Council of the Law School.

THE SAM ROSE '58 AND JULIE WALTERS PRIZE AT DICKINSON COLLEGE FOR GLOBAL ENVIRONMENTAL ACTIVISM
HONORING NATURAL RESOURCES DEFENSE COUNCIL CO-FOUNDER JOHN ADAMS

This year Dickinson College awards the third-annual Sam Rose '58 and Julie Walters Prize at Dickinson College for Global Environmental Activism. The $100,000 prize, given to an individual or group dedicated to preserving the planet and its resources, is awarded annually and incorporates a short-term residency for student and community interaction during the academic year.

The prize honors John Adams, who co-founded the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) in 1970, serving as the NRDC's executive director, and later president, from its inception until 2006, a tenure unparalleled by the leader of any other environmental organization. Today, the NRDC stands as a force for nature, with more than a million members, online activists and a staff of 400 using law, science and grassroots activism to carry out its important mission. Adams continues to play an active role in the organization on the local, national and international levels.

In 2010 Adams and his wife, Patricia, recounted the history of the NRDC and the environmental movement in their aptly named memoir, A Force For Nature. President Barack Obama awarded Adams the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor, in 2011 for his lifetime of public-service achievements.

Sam Rose '58 and his wife, Julie Walters, established the prize because of their deep personal regard for Adams and his work. Rose, a real-estate developer and attorney, was a member of the 1958 Dickinson lacrosse team that made college history when it won Dickinson's first and only national title. A founding partner of Greenebaum and Rose Associates, he has more than 40 years of experience in commercial development, primarily in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area. He is an emeritus trustee of Dickinson.

Committed to restoring and sustaining the natural world for future generations, Rose and Walters created this prize to focus attention on the need to reduce the impact of human lives on the planet, particularly given the rising population predictions for this century.

Dickinson, a national leader and innovator in sustainability education, challenges its students through classroom studies, living laboratories, service learning, student-faculty research and study abroad to build the knowledge and skills needed to create a sustainable world. Courses throughout the curriculum examine and seek solutions to national and global environmental problems. Dickinson's achievements and leadership in sustainability have earned the highest recognition from the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education, Sierra magazine, the Sustainable Endowments Institute, The Princeton Review and Second Nature.

JAMES BALOG is the third recipient of the Sam Rose '58 and Julie Walters Prize at Dickinson College for Global Environmental Activism. Balog, who founded the Extreme Ice Survey (EIS) and Earth Vision Trust, has been at the forefront of merging art and science and giving a "visual voice" to the planet's changing ecosystems.

To reveal the impact of climate change, Balog and his team undertook the most wide-ranging, ground-based photographic study of glaciers ever conducted. The results of this pioneering work are featured in the internationally acclaimed, award-winning documentary Chasing Ice and the PBS/NOVA special Extreme Ice. The film Chasing Ice has been screened at the White House, the U.S. Congress, the U.K. House of Commons and the U.N., and it has been the subject of features on many national news shows. Balog holds a graduate degree in geography and geomorphology from the University of Colorado and has been honored with many awards, including the American Geophysical Union Presidential Citation for Science and Society, the Heinz Award and an honorary doctor of science degree from the University of Alberta. In 2009, he served as a NASA representative at the U.N. Conference on Climate Change (COP-15) in Copenhagen.

He is the author of eight books, including ICE: Portraits of Vanishing Glaciers, Tree: A New Vision of the American Forest and Survivors: A New Vision of Endangered Wildlife, the last of which was hailed as a major conceptual breakthrough in environmental photography. His work is in dozens of public and private art collections, including the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston; the Corcoran Gallery of Art; the Denver Art Museum; and the Gilman Paper Company. His work also has been extensively published in most of the world's major pictorial magazines, including Life, Vanity Fair and National Geographic.

DIPLOMAS

At the request of past graduates and parents, we have not rolled the actual diplomas. The original diplomas will be available for pickup by the graduate or a family member on Britton Plaza (or, in the case of inclement weather, in Biddle House) immediately following Commencement.
Please be sure to pick them up by 2 p.m.

PHOTOGRAPHS

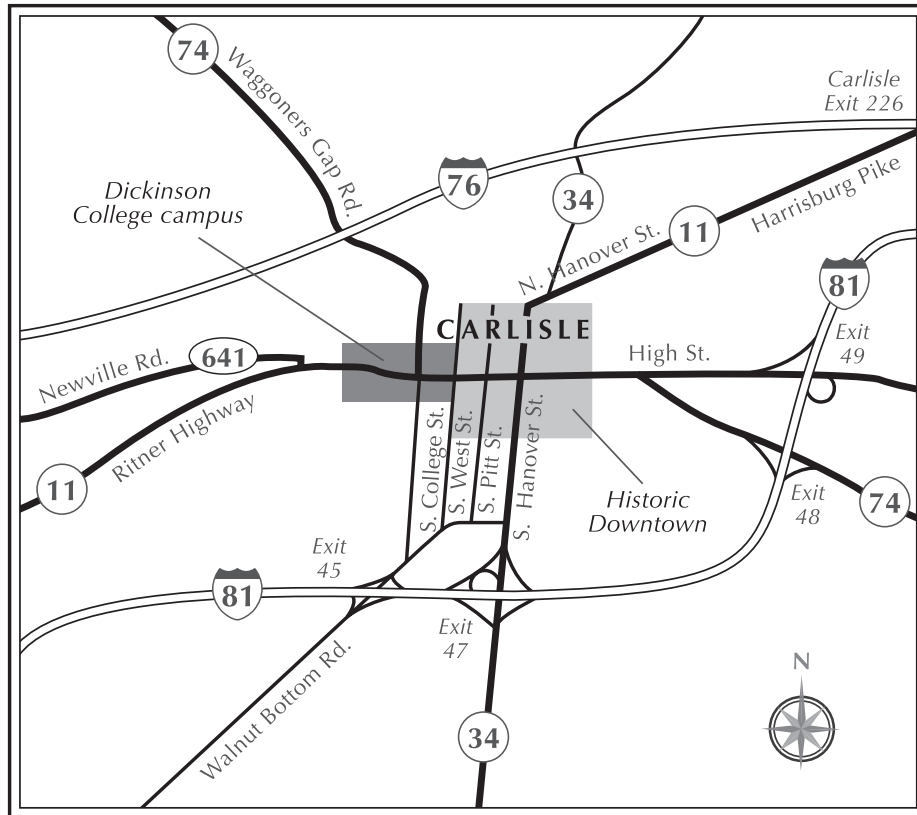

U.S. Candids will take photographs of each graduate. Photos will be posted online within two to three days after the graduation ceremony. You can view and purchase photos online at www.uscandids.com. If you are unable to view the photos online, please call 484-891-0482.
For additional information, questions or comments, please e-mail mail@uscandids.com.

VIDEOS

A professional videographer will tape the ceremony.
To purchase copies of the DVD or Blu-ray disc, contact Bucher's Video at 717-334-0038.

LEAVING CARLISLE

Guests and graduates may experience heavy traffic this afternoon because of the Carlisle Import-Kit/Replicar Nationals car show at the Carlisle Fairgrounds. To avoid traffic, people intending to go north or south on I-81 should go south on College Street, turn right on Walnut Bottom Road and proceed to the entrance ramps for I-81 (Exit 45). If you need to travel on the Turnpike, go to I-81 (as above) and proceed north to Exit 52 (PA Turnpike signs are clearly marked), then south on the Harrisburg Pike (Rt. 11) to the Turnpike entrance.

In 1888-1889, Charles Francis Himes was acting president, and in 1986-1987, George Allan, the dean of the college, served as acting president. During the periods 1816 to 1821 and 1832 to 1834 the college was closed.

History of the College

In 1773 the citizens of Carlisle founded a grammar school on land donated by Thomas and John Penn, but classes were temporarily suspended when the first schoolmaster left to serve at Valley Forge. With an optimism buoyed by colonial independence, Philadelphia physician Benjamin Rush proposed that the fledgling school be transformed into a college that would be “a source of light and knowledge to the western parts of the United States”—the wilderness lands stretching west from the Susquehanna River.

John Dickinson, governor of Pennsylvania and drafter of the Articles of Confederation, was persuaded, and on Sept. 9, 1783, a charter was approved by the Representatives of the Freemen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The new college, founded by Presbyterians but with an independent board of trustees, was dedicated to “the instruction of Youth in the learned languages” and in the “useful arts, Sciences, and Literature.”

Charles Nisbet, a Calvinist minister from Scotland, was the first principal of the college. He insisted on rationality and high standards of learning and encouraged the founding of two of the nation’s oldest continuing literary societies, Belles Lettres (1786) and Union Philosophical (1789). Chief Justice Roger Brooke Taney, class of 1795, and U.S. President James Buchanan, class of 1809, were among their early student members.

The college’s first permanent building, Old West, was completed in 1805. Benjamin Latrobe, the architect of the Capitol building in Washington, contributed both preliminary designs and working drawings for the building. To him and to its builders, higher education was a cause upon which the life of their new nation depended, and Old West was built as a living monument to their conviction. Known as the “College Edifice,” the building was crowned by a weathervane replica of a classical sea deity, interpreted and rendered by a local coppersmith in the form of a buxom mermaid. Over the years, it has become a distinctive symbol of this inland campus.

When Old West was erected, Dickinson’s trustees and donors had the same broad objective in mind—to secure the freedom and future of America by assuring an educated citizenry. They agreed that liberty must be founded on learning. This aim was inscribed on the college’s seal, a copy of which appears on the cover of this program. Among the donors were a U.S. president (Thomas Jefferson), a U.S. vice president (James Madison), a chief justice (John Marshall), members of President Jefferson’s cabinet and members of the Supreme Court—in all, more than 100 patriots and soldiers of the War for Independence.

In the early 19th century, Dickinson fell on hard times, briefly closing twice before coming under the sponsorship of the Methodist Church in 1833. The college was revitalized under the leadership of its new president, John Price Durbin, a former chaplain of the U.S. Senate.

During the Civil War, Dickinson sent her sons to fight on both sides, hopeful “that college loyalties would bind where civil strife separated.” In the years after the war, Dickinson leavened its abiding commitment to liberal-arts education with several innovations. The college became coeducational in 1884 in response to the determination and courage of its first woman student, Zatae Longsdorff, class of 1887. The law department, inaugurated in 1834, became the Dickinson School of Law in 1890 but has operated independently from the college since 1917. Dickinson also introduced elective courses for its students at this time and experimented briefly with awarding doctoral degrees in cursu. Following World War I, President James Henry Morgan presided over a new educational experiment that required students to graduate with a major field of concentration as a part of their general baccalaureate.

Since 1960, under the leadership of Presidents Howard L. Rubendall ’31, Samuel A. Banks, A. Lee Fritschler, William G. Durden ’71 and Nancy A. Roseman, the first female president of the college, Dickinson has developed and expanded a balanced and diverse liberal-arts curriculum that has fostered a wide range of distinctive multidisciplinary strengths that include: innovative programming in global and sustainability studies; a willingness to tackle contemporary challenges through emerging fields such as security studies; a nationally celebrated workshop/laboratory approach to science education; abundant student-faculty research opportunities; extensive internship, study-abroad and service-learning options; and a distinctive first-year seminar program.

Dickinson’s picturesque campus has always served as a park and playing field for students, its history punctuated by major fires, an 1863 Confederate-Army bivouac and soldier parade drills in 1917 and 1942. In the early years, professors and students cultivated cabbages and onions on the grounds. Today, the campus’ abundant flowers and trees are augmented by produce, herbs and forage greens, which also thrive at the nearby organic Dickinson College Farm. In warm weather, classes often are held on the campus green, and as in generations past, Commencement exercises and other ceremonious occasions take place by “the old stone steps” of Old West.
